Society Hill choke suspect surrenders

Society Hill mugging suspect Willie Wyche, 39, turned himself into police headquarters yesterday afternoon after police identified him from a surveillance video as the man allegedly leaving the scene of one of the attacks and mounted a public campaign for his capture.

"Police had been going to his family's house looking for him, so he knew he was wanted," said Capt. Sharon Seaborough. "He surrendered to the pressure."

Six women have been similarly assaulted in the neighborhood since June 25. Though he is a "prime suspect" in all of the incidents, Wyche is only being charged with the July 10 robbery on the 700 block of Lombard Street at this time. Detectives are working to tie him to the other crimes, including the most recent attack on Sunday near Thomas Jefferson University Hospital.

"When you look at the method and the location, it really seems like he did them all, but we have to let the evidence talk," said Seaborough.

'Toxic' reliance on Pa. coal, oil plants

State ranked second on list of 'most toxic' pollution ◐ Study released by advocacy group as fight in Washington for stricter standards grows

RIKARD LARMA/METRO

Pennsylvania's addiction to coal and oil-fired power plants is well documented, but a new analysis released yesterday puts it in a new light as Congress considers stricter standards proposed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The commonwealth ranks second-highest for toxic air pollution from power plants, according to the analysis from the National Resources Defense Council and Physicians for Social Responsibility, based on 2009 data from the EPA. Medical experts say increased exposure to pollution can lead to medical conditions such as asthma, birth defects and development disorders.

"We know very clearly that the toxins pose a health risk," said Peter Altman, Climate Campaign Director for the NRDC, an international nonprofit. "As a rule, the less of it there is the better."

EPA has proposed revising its public health protections by making its Mercury and Air Toxics standard stricter, but some federal lawmakers have vowed to block the measure.

According to NRDC analysis, only Ohio has more industrial toxic air pollution. In 2009, the last full year for which data is available, Pennsylvania produced more than 50 million pounds in industrial toxic air pollution, most of which came from the electrical sector.

"We get a significant amount of our energy and rely heavily on the coal-fired power plants and most of them are extremely old power plants that have not been updated in 30, 40 years."
ADAM GERBER, PENNENVIRONMENT

The coal industry argues that it has reduced the amount of pollutants and that opponents are trying to get America away from coal-based energy.

"When you use the word 'toxic,' I do dispute the use of that word," George Ellis, of the Pennsylvania Coal Association, said of the analysis. "I think it's more a scare tactic than scientifically based."

They also admitted to setting a second Dumpster fire a half-mile away at Loretto and Solly avenues. METRO/AW

Jail populations smaller, violent crime reduced

Win-win situation over past two years New study finds jail population has declined 1,700 in two years

RIKARD LARMA/METRO

Philadelphia's jail population declined 11 percent from 2009 to 2010, according to a study released yesterday from the Pew Charitable Trusts' Philadelphia Research Initiative.

The report reveals that the average daily population in 2010 was 8,273 — down from 9,321 in 2009. The number dipped as low as 7,700 earlier this year, but rose to 8,048 in June. Experts attribute the reduction to fewer people being held pretrial and those held for parole and probation violations.

The fewer inmates, which depending on who you ask can cost anywhere from $20 to $95 per inmate per day, saved the city prison system $10 million. It also meant $6.4 million over two years less in police overtime and $1 million less for sheriff's officer salaries this year.

"I would take it as a collaboration and of better things to come. It's a statement of what the DA has done in terms of changing some charging policies, getting rid of some of them," said William DiMascio, executive director of the Pennsylvania Prison Society. "It points out the move to more alternatives to incarceration."

Still pretty high

The city's jail population still remains high compared to other cities, with the fifth-highest rate of incarceration among the 50 jurisdictions with the largest jail populations.

District Attorney Seth Williams said the policy changes have been part of a collaboration across the law enforcement and prison systems in Philadelphia.

"Through our efforts to charge only the crimes we can prove in court, divert small amounts of marijuana cases as well as low-level misdemeanors out of the court system and offer appropriate plea offers on other cases, we have simultaneously reduced the number of cases dismissed and delayed, reduced the size of Philadelphia's prison population and concentrated our resources on violent crimes and other felonies," Williams said.

"We have simultaneously improved public safety and reduced the size of the county prison population — and proved that the two are not mutually exclusive." WILLIAMS

Free Library wants TLC in digital age

The Free Library's Central Branch hosted a dive bar-themed author event last night as part of an attempt to attract an underserved demographic: young adults who have graduated from college but have not yet settled down.

"Once people have families, they tend to come back here for children's books; but in the meantime, people's social lives don't generally revolve around going to events at the library," said library coordinator Dan Schiffner.

The free event featured Philadelphia Weekly writer Brian McManus, author of Philadelphia's "Best Dive Bars: Drinking and Diving in the City of Brotherly Love" and "The Regulars" author-photographer Sarah Stolfa, who assembled portraits after tending bar at McGlinchey's.

"People's social lives don't generally revolve around going to events at the library."

British PM regrets hire of journalist

Prime Minister David Cameron, defending his integrity to parliament in emergency session yesterday, said he regretted hiring a journalist at the heart of a scandal that has rocked Britain's press, police and politics.

But in hours of stormy questioning he seemed to rally his Conservative Party behind him and stopped short of bowing to demands that he apologize outright for what the Labour leader called a "catastrophic error of judgment" in appointing as his spokesman a former editor of Rupert Murdoch's News of the World.

Only if Andy Coulson, who has since resigned,

"If it turns out I have been lied to, that would be a moment for a profound apology." CAMERON should turn out to have lied about not knowing of illegal practices at his newspaper would the prime minister offer a "profound apology."

Analysts said Cameron emerged from the debate looking stronger than when he was forced to fly home early from Africa to face lawmakers. But he left some lingering questions unanswered, notably about his role in Murdoch's takeover bid for TV network BSkyB. REUTERS

Fuller sues Fox over 'X Factor' fees

"American Idol" creator Simon Fuller has sued the Fox television network seeking credits and monetary fees for the upcoming U.S. version of TV talent show, "The X Factor."

The breach of contract lawsuit, which became public yesterday, alleges that Fox, part of the News Corp. media empire, and producers FremantleMedia North America have refused to honor a 2005 contract granting Fuller an executive producer credit and fees for the U.S. version of "The X Factor."

Fox and Fremantle said the lawsuit, which was filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, was without merit and they expected to prevail in court. REUTERS

Nude images nixed from airport scans, security unit says

Don't get your panties in a bunch Experience at airports soon to involve fewer pictures of private parts

MANDEL NGAN/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

▶ The TSA plans to unroll nudity-free scanning software.

New software for screening travelers at U.S. airports will do away with naked images, addressing a major public concern, the Transportation Security Administration said yesterday.

After complaints from travelers, the TSA earlier this year began testing at four airports software for the full-body scanners that instead uses a generic body outline and highlights the area where any anomaly is detected, eliminating actual images of passengers.

TSA has increasingly relied on the full-body scanners after a Nigerian man allegedly tried to detonate a bomb hidden in his underwear aboard a transatlantic flight in December 2009. The bomb failed to fully explode but set off a rush to upgrade security to detect explosives underneath clothing.

Later this year, TSA plans to roll out a pilot program that will allow some frequent fliers at four hub U.S. airports to go through expedited screening, an attempt to shift more toward assessing the risk of the individual flier rather than a one-size-fits-all security model. REUTERS

The gang says goodbye

▶ Actors Kevin Connolly, Adrian Grenier, Jeremy Piven, Kevin Dillon and Jerry Ferrara attend the 'Entourage' Season 8 premiere at the Beacon Theatre on Tuesday night in New York City.

It was packed Tuesday night on Amsterdam Avenue in New York City for the premiere of the final season of "Entourage." Mark Walhberg, Adrian Grenier, Kevin Connolly, Kevin Dillon, Jerry Ferrara, Jeremy Piven, Sir Ben Kingsley, Andrew Dice Clay and many others were on hand to say goodbye to the hit HBO show. Now that the series is done filming, we asked some of the stars we saw: Who would make up their ultimate entourage?

Bryan Batt:

("Mad Men" actor) I'd love to have my mom, she just passed away. I would love to have her back. She'd be first on my list. I would have Christina Hendricks, and my friend Patricia Clarkson. They're grounded and cool people and I love to hang with them. They're also gorgeous red heads. We'd go to Venice and get in a gondola and row and row.

Adrian Grenier:

John Lennon.

Jeremy Piven:

My mom. Definitely my momma.

Kevin Dillon:

I think I would like Dean Martin. He's a golfer, he sings great and he's cool. He's smooth as butter.

Doug Ellin

("Entourage" creator) My kids and my dogs. That's it. I'm not really into the entourage. I still have my best friends. My best friends from elementary school are here tonight. They've been to every one of these premieres — even to my bad movie premieres.

Constance Zimmer

(Dana Gordon) My husband, my daughter and my nanny. That's pretty much my entourage. We go to the park. We eat a lot. We do a lot of eating. Mind you, that's my posse. But my ultimate entourage would probably be people who are shorter than me and not as pretty as me. Anything to make me feel better about myself. Just kidding!

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

It's been a whale of a week so far

1: Will Ferrell found something whiter than he is: Nanuq, a 2,000-pound beluga whale. Ferrell hung out with the whale at SeaWorld San Diego's Wild Arctic attraction Tuesday in San Diego, Calif.

2: Madeline Follin of the band Cults hung out with Matt Pinfield at Bowery Electric on Tuesday night in New York. Cults performed a few songs to celebrate the revival of Pinfield's classic show "120 Minutes." Videos on an MTV network again? Rock on!

10 Reasons to go to the movies this weekend

2 'Friends With Benefits' Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis attempt to make work what absolutely no one else in the history of predictable rom-coms has been able to. At least they'll look hot doing it.

3 'Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2' You may have heard about this little sleeper hit. The final installment of the franchise pits Potter against his life-long nemesis, the creepily noseless Lord Voldemort.

4 'Winnie the Pooh' No 3-D, no computer animation, just a purely delightful little film set in the Hundred Acre Wood.

5 'Horrible Bosses' No one likes working for a man eater, a psychopath or a jerk — but very few of us would actually embark on eliminating said boss. Jason Sudeikis, Charlie Day and Jason Bateman star as three hardworking men who attempt to do just that.

6 'Zookeeper' Fans of Kevin James will likely enjoy his romp around a Boston zoo where talking animals give him dating advice.

7 'Transformers: Dark of the Moon' Michael Bay has paid for the sins of the last "Transformers" film with this straightened-out sequel, which features fight scenes where you can actually see what's going on.

8 'Larry Crowne' It's nice to see Tom Hanks do something funny after so many dour (and questionably successful) films. As Crowne, he's a down-on-his-luck good guy trying to rebuild his life by going to community college.

9 'Monte Carlo' Leighton Meester, Katie Cassidy and Selena Gomez star in this tweenified story of three girls traveling in Paris who are whisked away to Monte Carlo when one of them is mistaken for a British heiress.

10 'Cars 2' Owen Wilson and Larry the Cable Guy return to give voice to Lightning McQueen and Mater as they head to the World Prix Grand race. METRO

'Curb Your Enthusiasm' is back for its eighth season
Star Jeff Garlin dishes about life on and off the set

In between interviews and an acupuncture appointment, Jeff Garlin wasn't able to tell us too much about the eighth season of "Curb Your Enthusiasm," on which he plays Larry David's irritable manager. The 49-year-old actor and comedian did, however, spill some tidbits about starring on the Emmy- and Golden Globe-winning show.

What can we expect to see this season?
I hope that people will think it's funny. I can't really give anything away.
How about your character? Any major upheavals?
There's actually one big upheaval. There's one big change for my character early in the season.
What's changed over the past eight seasons, and what has remained the same?
What's stayed the same is that we improvise, we have a good time and we don't believe the hype. What's changed is the shows have become more dense as the years go on. There's more things going on in each episode.
Do you curse as much as your onscreen wife, Susie Essman?
Yes, I actually do curse a lot, more than I'd like. People come up to me on the street and say, "My wife is just like Susie," and the wife is standing right there, and they're proud of it. I'm like, "Are you kidding me?"
I hear that you might play Babe Ruth in an upcoming movie. Is that true?
That's not true. I was offered that role and a friend of mine at the time was directing it. I said, "Sure, I'm interested," and the money never came together. And also, I'm dropping weight, so if they want me to be Babe Ruth, they had better hurry up.
How are you losing weight?
I eat healthy and I exercise. Dieting is a bunch of crap. It's temporary, and dieting is a struggle, and you just don't need to do a struggle for something that's temporary. You need to change your habits. That's why I don't eat sugar — I haven't had in sugar in over two and half years.

Q&A

Have Larry's neuroses rubbed off on you?

▶ No. It's all pretend. We don't blur a line between off-camera and on-camera. He's been a big influence on me personally, but that's not the character that people see.

Slipknot singer's 'Deadly' new book

He's led a wild life as the lead singer of hard rock bands Slipknot and Stone Sour, but Corey Taylor is also surprisingly sensitive. The 37-year-old's first book, "Seven Deadly Sins" — dedicated to his children, wife and grandmother — is an in-depth argument for the redefinition of sin, meshed with personal stories from his childhood and career.

How is your book different from other rock-star books?

FOR THE COMPLETE INTERVIEW, VISIT WWW.METRO.US/BOOKS

I wrote it myself — that's probably a huge difference. A lot of people think that just sitting down with someone who's punching letters into a computer counts as writing your own book, but I completely disagree. I felt I had a very relevant thing to say and I could use my own life as examples, so I can only hope that people take a lot of different things away from it.

Will you write more books?

I've actually been talking about a concept for another book; I'm kind of waiting to see how this book does before I start working on it, but I've pretty much written the first chapter.

What's it about?

Basically, it'll be a collection of stories, the difference between believing in the paranormal or the supernatural, versus believing in God and having faith. Like, how can I believe in ghosts when I don't believe in God? It's like believing in aliens and not God. ... It'll probably be a lot more comedy, and some of the chapters will probably be a little darker than "Seven Deadly Sins," but I'm actually gonna go out and go on different ghost hunts.

Q&A

What will you tell your kids if they want to read your book?

I guess what I would say to my kids is like, "Look: Don't miss the point. It's supposed to be talking about being human, making mistakes and at the end of the day, striving to be a better person. And [it's about] using these 'sins' to whittle away all the clay to get to what's inside, which is the beautiful sculpture, the beautiful piece of art, the human that you wanna be."

THE RUNDOWN

Metro's guide to what's happening in Philly this week

GETTY IMAGES

Rihanna is in town this weekend.

Food and drink

Philadelphia Zoo Summer Ale Festival
Saturday, 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.
Advance tickets required: $60-$90 ($39 for designated drivers)
www.philadelphiazoo.org
After the field trips go home, the zoo turns into a mega beer garden this Saturday with craft brews from over 20 local breweries to pair up with nibbles from more than 30 restaurants. And, of course, we can't forget about the lions — try finding another place to drink with lions this weekend.

Farm to Fork Week
Through Saturday
www.sjhotchefs.com
This annual partnership between South Jersey farmers and chefs is back, with more than 30 restaurants offering special menus starring local ingredients. Participants serving the four-course menus ($25-$35) include Caffe Aldo Lamberti, Arugula and Carolina Blue, while 1895 Organic Farm, Hunters Farm, Muth Family Farm and Spinella Farm are providing the goods.

University City Dining Days
Through July 28
www.universitycity.org
Summer is the prime time to sample what University City's restaurants and bars have to offer. For an extra bonus, do it now while many are offering special three-course menus for three different prices. In the $15 range, try Tria's new sibling across the river, Biba, or go west with Dock Street. On the higher end, neighborhood fave Rx has a $25 menu, and JG Domestic is offering a $30 prix fixe.

Films

Awesome Fest: 'Orbit'
Sunday, 7:30 p.m.
The Piazza at Schmidts
www.theawesomefest.com
This new, free outdoor series from PUFF and Philly CineFest artistic director Josh Goldbloom brings both obscure indies and more mainstream films to the Piazza's gigantic screen. This week, stop by for "Orbit," a story of the solar system told through short films about each planet. And yes — Pluto is on the bill.

Movie Monday: 'Arthur'
Monday, 8 p.m.
The Trocadero
$3 (goes toward a drink)
www.thetroc.com
Russell Brand flicks are what the Troc's delightfully rowdy Movie Monday series were made for. This week, they screen this remake starring Brand as a childish billionaire and Helen Mirren as his sassy caretaker.

Arts

Shakespeare in Clark Park
Through Sunday
Free, Chester Ave. and 43rd streets
www.shakespeareinclarkpark.org
This magical West Philly series is back with an outdoor performance of the Bard's "Much Ado About Nothing."

BalletX: Summer Series 2011
Through Sunday
The Wilma Theater
$20-$30
www.balletx.org
Two world premieres ("Castrati" by Annabelle Lopez Ochoa and Roger C. Jeffrey's "a soliloquy among many") a company premiere ("It's Not a Cry" by Amy Seiwert) and the company's first short film ("en dedans," by Gabrielle Lamb) make up BalletX's season finale.

National Hot Dog Day at Silicon Gallery
Saturday, 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.
139 N. Third St.
Pay a visit to the Old City gallery for hot dog-centric prints by Philly artist Hawk Krall as well as gourmet dogs from South Philly Tap Room chef Scott Schroeder. Bring a donation for Cradles to Crayons — a nonprofit in need of new and gently used clothes, books and toys — and your snack is free.

Vox Populi Benefit Show
Tonight, 9
Johnny Brenda's, $10
www.voxpopuligallery.org
Reading Rainbow, Creepoid, Gunn-Truscinski Duo and Dan Murphy (of Megawords) play this benefit for the always innovative gallery. Next weekend, help them celebrate the opening of AUX, their new live arts performance space.

Music

Rihanna: Loud Tour
Saturday, 7:30 p.m.
The Wells Fargo Center
$23-$250, www.wellsfargocenterphilly.com
Somehow, Rihanna found room among the platforms and props to pack guest J. Cole on her summer tour.

How do your morals taste?

RE: "IF ONLY VEGGIES TASTED BETTER": Reader Mark, what separates us from the geese upon whose livers you feast is our alleged capacity for compassion. I'm sure you'll be able to fill the foie void in your life somehow — maybe go to the park and watch the geese.
ALLISON WILLNER, VIA E-MAIL

Your blatant advocacy for the torture of a species just so people like you can have the luxury of enjoying an unnecessary delicacy is completely repulsive.
LISA DRAPKIN, VIA E-MAIL

No justice for evil doers

The wrinkled prune (I've seen better-looking burn victims) Rupert Murdoch testified that he employs 53,000 great and ethical people (sans the 10 arrested and one dead). He's up on that, but when it came to paying hacking victims multimillion-dollar settlements, he claims he knows nothing. If I were James Murdoch, I'd brush up the old man on the definition of perjury.
DAVID DIBELLO, VIA E-MAIL

First the Strauss-Kahn screw up, then the Casey Anthony screw up, and now the Rupert "I didn't know anything" Murdoch screw up. What's next? From what I can see, justice is not just blind, but deaf and dumb, too.
HERB STARK, VIA E-MAIL

Act now, or hold our peace

RE: "DEMOCRATS WILL INDEED PAY TAX": Tax increases sound like a simple answer (aside from the fact that taxation is theft), but they will just create more of the same gluttonous spending. Try cutting $1.6 trillion immediately from the next fiscal year. There is plenty of waste in Washington.
KELLY DONNOE, VIA E-MAIL

I don't know if Congress has awakened to the fact yet that their duty in office is to the American people first and foremost, and not to stall the government. This isn't a game of Scrabble or tic-tac-toe; real lives weigh in the balance and real money is on the line here.
JONATHAN PERRY, VIA E-MAIL

Whatever it is, if the debt ceiling is not raised, the market will crash along with those dear US bondholders and whatnot. Why it has to be done on the back of the elderly or anyone or anything else beats me, but so be it. America Inc. is not a welfare state, so let's now put our words into action and eat our peas.

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Trying to help out another while at the same time attempting to do your own job is likely to turn out to be a bummer for both of you, as you lose track of which project you're working on.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. You're not likely to take kindly to those who oppose your opinions or ideas. If this is the case, you're apt to turn your back on some really good thinking that could help you out a lot.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Be very careful about who you team up with. If you link up with someone who doesn't operate with the same high standards as you, this person could create trouble.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Owing to an inclination to negatively judge people in advance, you could easily begin a relationship thinking the worst of someone.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Adopting the wrong attitude will defeat you right off the bat. All you'll do is unjustly jaundice your view.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Just because a friend of yours is in a mood that makes him or her difficult to get along with at this point in time, there's no reason to shun this person altogether.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Once you establish an objective, you're apt be quite headstrong when going after it — which is well and good, as long as you don't carry it too far.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. If you're looking for some encouragement, don't seek out the opinions of someone who seldom endorses another person's ideas. All you'll get is a negative assessment.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Be careful about borrowing money that you could have trouble paying back, and avoid loaning out what you can't afford to lose. In either case, it is likely to be problematic for you.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Your self-sufficient qualities might desert you and you could wrongfully depend on others to accomplish your aims. You won't like what they do, and you won't relish the results.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Although you're usually pretty efficient, this could be one of those days when everything you do seems harder or comes out all wrong.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Trying too hard to please someone will result in no one having a good time. Relax and let the chips fall where they may. Even if things still don't go well, you'll be able to laugh.

Phillies beat heat, Cubs to get eighth series win in a row

Rollins homers from both sides ◗ Worley dominates in eight innings ◗ Team hosts Padres this weekend

The game-time temperature at Wrigley Field was 97 degrees.

But the heat index, along with Jimmy Rollins' smoking lumber, sure made it feel a lot hotter.

Rollins homered from both sides of the plate — a solo shot from the left in the sixth and another from the right in the eighth — as the Phillies beat the Cubs, 9-1. It was the eighth straight series' win for the team, following victories over the Cardinals, Athletics, Red Sox, Blue Jays, Marlins, Braves and Mets.

Overall wins (36 losses) for the Phillies this season. This weekend, the team returns to Citizens Bank Park, where they are 34-15.

Vance Worley (6-1) dominated for eight innings, as the 23-year-old allowed just one run on four hits while striking out seven and walking two. Ryan Madson worked a perfect ninth to seal the deal. Worley had a no-hitter going until Geovany Soto singled with one out in the fifth.

Michael Martinez continued his torrid stretch, with two hits, two steals and two runs. The Rule 5 pick is hitting .379 with six runs since July 9. Chase Utley added two RBI doubles.

The Phillies are off today, before welcoming the San Diego Padres to Citizens Bank Park for a four-game set. METRO

Colombian goalkeeper humbled to be All-Star

In their expansion season, the goalkeeping was inconsistent. That's to be expected with young players like Chris Seitz and Brad Knighton.

All that changed in the winter when the Union brought in Faryd Mondragon. The 40-year-old Colombian goalkeeper has been more than a stabilizer. He's been rock solid.

It was fitting when Major League Soccer announced that Mondragon was among 22 MLS All-Stars selected to compete against English Premier League club Manchester United on July 27 in the MLS All-Star Game at New York's Red Bull Arena.

Mondragon has posted a 0.84 goals-against average, along with seven shutouts in 19 games.

"I'm obviously very proud, very happy," said Mondragon. "I have to thank the ownership, front office, technical staff, fans and especially the players who have made my job very, very easy."

Mondragon played in the 1992 Olympics and the '98 FIFA World Cup. Capped 50 times by Colombia, Mondragon was last in net for the national team when Colombia met the U.S. at PPL Park in 2010.

Now, he's in net for the Eastern Conference-leading Union — and it has been a perfect marriage.

"I'm very humbled and proud," Mondragon said.

End in sight: NFL players, owners closer than ever?

Lockout not over, but expected to end today Two sides working out last few kinks, says ESPN NFLPA president: 'We're not tied to timeline'

Tick, tock. Tick, tock.

No?

Yesterday, the clock appeared to be ticking down on a new collective bargaining agreement and the end of the NFL lockout. Unfortunately, player reps left NFLPA headquarters in Washington, D.C. without a vote. The holdup, according to ESPN, was the lack of a final document to review.

www.metro.us
STAY WITH METRO ALL DAY. FOLLOW US ONLINE FOR MORE GREAT CONTENT

Owners are still scheduled to meet today in Atlanta and a vote could take place via conference call. According to ESPN, topics for discussion include the CBA, transition rules and a calendar for the start of the 2011 season.

NFLPA president Kevin Mawae said that the players aren't tied to a July 21 deadline.

"Our timeline is to get a deal that's best for the players — today, tomorrow or whatever it might be," Mawae said.

If the players ratify the deal, with a majority vote, then 24 of the 32 owners must say "yes" for the new CBA to pass. The antitrust lawsuit, pertaining to 10 plaintiffs, isn't expected to hold up the deal. METRO

Deal with it

Eagles QB Michael Vick picked up his third national endorsement yesterday, agreeing to represent Fuse Science, Inc. and its line of sports nutrition vitamins.

"I believe these products will revolutionize how athletes provide their bodies with nutrients and medicines, changing what we have come to accept as normal," Vick said.

Earlier this year, Vick inked endorsement deals with Unequal Technologies and then reunited with Nike.

NEW SPORTS POWER COUPLE

JASON McINTYRE
SPORTS@METRO.US

The sports world fell in love with Rory McIlroy when he played three brilliant rounds at the Masters and then spectacularly collapsed on Sunday.

Then, McIlroy came out and won the US Open … nearly as spectacularly as he failed at Augusta. He was instantly hailed as the "Next Tiger Woods," except more humble.

You know that Biggie song, 'Mo Money, Mo Problems?' McIlroy's success led to some issues with his longtime girlfriend, and the two were on and off prior to last week's British Open. Guess what McIlroy did Sunday after his final round?

Reportedly, he took a train to go and meet his rumored new girlfriend, the No. 1 tennis player in the world, Caroline Wozniacki. An intrepid blogger snapped two grainy photos of McIlroy and Wozniacki at a bar and then in the street, but neither's camp has confirmed or denied the budding romance.

After Greg Norman and Chris Evert, McIlroy and Wozniacki would have to be the second most-famous golf-tennis coupling of all time, right?

Britt-ney Spears?

Kenny Britt, the Titans wide receiver who leads the NFL in arrests during the lockout with three, attended a Britney Spears concert Monday in Nashville. For whatever reason, he ended up onstage (Britt and Britney, get it? Ha!), and in an ironic twist, was handcuffed to a pole. Britney wrapped a pink boa around Kenny Britt's shoulders.

If Britt's looking to rehab his image for whenever his suspension is lifted, why would he go this route? Certainly the concert will be showed when a Titans game is televised this fall.

Big Ben, boozy reception

Ben Roethlisberger is getting married this weekend in Pittsburgh. Yes, the same Steelers QB who spent the last two summers fending off sexual assault allegations. His new wife will be Ashley Harlan, a 26-year-old who works at a hospital in Pittsburgh.

With the NFL lockout set to end, I imagine the party at the reception will get pretty rowdy. Will James Harrison attend — and if so, will he pack heat? Hey Hines Ward, just remember to call a cab.
